

"It was in the eighth year of my lighting design career that I was kidnapped by a band of web / info technology geeks."

Robyn Mierzwa Associate

"A classic example of the Stockholm syndrome, I began to sympathize with, and even idolize, my captors. Chained to a computer, I learned web programming, network admin, computer repair, you name it. Then an undisclosed ransom bought my safe return to HLB some four years ago, and I was duly dispatched as IT Director. These days, brainwashing intact, I try to recruit others at HLB to my oft misunderstood, yet vital mission."

HLB provides an open, entrepreneurial environment in which our staff thrive. True to this spirit, last year a group of us developed and launched a web site called eLumit.com. It's a lighting product search and spec tool that makes finding just the right fixture a snap. Best of all, it's free to specifiers.
